

25 Ways To Make Money Online In 2022

Jun 20, 2022 by Jack Butcher

Discover how to make money online by leveraging your passion, skills, and expertise. Learn how one tiny goal can change your life forever, the concept of making $1 on the internet.

Over the past decade, the internet has born rise to an exciting phenomenon. The ability to make money online from your own home.

People across the globe are making money online by trading their skills, value, and products with consumers that were previously out of reach.

I first learned how to make money online back in 2019, when I launched Visualize Value - a digital business that now drives passive income through online course sales, and leverages millions of followers across our website, and social media accounts.

My goal is to share with you the important lessons that shaped my journey and to provide you with the best online money-making ideas to help get you started.

How To Make Money Online

The last few years have drastically changed our relationship with work, and how we make money online.

In a recent study, Forrester predicted that 70% of US and European companies will pivot to a hybrid work model post-pandemic and that many companies will maintain a 100% remote first working culture.

This perfect storm is further accelerating as the information revolution continues to gain pace. It's no secret that the formal education system is too rigid, and inaccessible to serve the growing demand for information, and knowledge.

These factors position you perfectly to create value online and trade it for income on the internet. And there are now so many ways to do it, whether you are looking to 'own' or 'contribute'.

Top Tips For Making Money Online Before We Get Started

Before we dive into the specific ways that you can make money online, here are some guiding principles to think about that will help you set yourself up for success.

Make $1 on the internet

This way of thinking helped me grow my online business from $1, to $1,000,000 per annum and beyond. If you can earn $1 online, then you can automate systems that continue to make you that $1 on a continuous, and repeatable basis over time.

Put in the work, and respect the process. Ultimately, if you want to see in the dark, then you have to start by eating your carrots (making money online requires time, energy, and effort).

Package your experience

If you are just starting out, you have two options; move your experience online, and help others leverage your expertise to achieve their own aspirations and money-making goals, alternatively, lean into things you care about, and take the time to master them.

No matter how small your target niche is, if you can master the skills required to dominate your niche, alongside learning the skills required to create best-in-class content then you can leverage the subsequent attention to earn money on the internet.

Automate with code

When it comes to making money online, it's important to outsource as much heavy lifting as possible.

If you are selling things online, outsource your online store. If you are planning to start a blog, leverage a popular blogging framework. Looking to build an online community? Leverage tools to help you communicate with your audience at scale.

This focus on automation will free up your time to generate value and communicate your message. Never stop automating, and be ruthless in your approach.

Build once, sell twice

The concept of building once, and selling twice is how you earn money online at scale.

Anyone with an internet connection has the ability to leverage arbitrage opportunities on the internet to create best-in-class content from anywhere in the world.

Build it once (whether that be a Youtube video, blog post, Tweet, or Instagram reel), and leverage it so that it can be sold, or consumed twice (and beyond).

Remove your reliance on one-to-one relationships, and create one-to-many relationships.

25 Ways To Make Money Online

There are so many ways to earn money online. Whether you are looking to build long-term, generational wealth, or to make money fast, there is a place for you to earn money on the internet.

Let's check out some of the best business ideas that will help you make money online.

1. Build and sell online courses

This is an online business model that is close to my heart.

Online courses allow you to leverage your unique knowledge, skillset, and passion to drive passive income from the internet. Anyone with an internet connection, can package their expertise into a digital product that can be sold online.

Once I grasped this concept, I began leveraging the online community that I built through my social media accounts, to earn between $50-200k per month in passive income.

If you are successful in implementing this business model, there are some amazing benefits that can help you free up your time to focus on the things you care about.

Firstly, beyond the cost of production, and hosting your online course, there is very little cost in running a digital product business (it's effectively 100% profit).

Secondly, once the online course is created, your only job is to promote your digital product. That means you're not dealing with supply chain issues, shipping costs, inventory headaches, or stock shortages.

Remember though, every digital business has its drawbacks. It takes time to build your audience, and it's important that you provide value for money when you design your digital content.

There are also endless amounts of free information online, so it's important that your content helps people achieve their own ambitions, whether that is learning a new skill, earning money online, improving their online business, or helping them save money.

If you are interested in learning more about building your own digital product, and starting an online course business, check out Visualize Value's step-by-step programme, Build Once, Sell Twice.

We help digital content creators leverage their unique skillsets to earn passive income online. We passionately believe that starting an online course business offers one of the best ways to make money online.

- How easy to start: digital products can be quick, and easy to create, but they must drive value for your audience. Invest time upfront to build your community, and determine how you add value within your niche.
- Setup time: this can vary depending on your course content, but likely between 25-100 hours.

2. Sell custom products on your own online store

Another great way to make money online is to produce and sell your own custom products.

While there are other eCommerce models like print-on-demand, and dropshipping, selling your own custom products provides you as a business owner with a way to start making money online that is entirely in your own hands.

Think of big brands like Gymshark, and Larson and Jennings. Both took traditional products, added new, unique elements, and repurposed them to start attracting their own customers.

Just be mindful that bringing any new product to market can be an expensive, and time consuming process.

It's important to leverage good suppliers, and technology to help you scale, and understanding how to drive paid traffic through Google, and social media is a very useful skill to help scale you start selling online faster.

- How easy to start: starting an online store can take a few hours. What will take time is producing a valuable product that will attract new customers. Spend time watching videos, and learning from those who have already built solid sales channels.
- Setup time: once you have a product to sell, anything from 3-25 hours.

3. Start affiliate marketing on an online blog

If you like to produce content, and you have the dedication, patience, and willpower to attract audiences over time, then starting an online blog is a great option.

Once you create a high traffic blog, there are tonnes of ways to make money, and generate spare cash. This includes affiliate marketing, selling digital products, earning ad revenue, and selling sponsored content.

On top of this, it's extremely easy to get started. All you need is a solid internet connection, and the ability to use popular blogging frameworks like Wordpress. Once you are setup, there is nothing stopping you from creating, and publishing content at scale.

While online bloggers can make good money, there are some downsides to be aware of.

Online blogging will not generate money immediately. No matter how good your content is, it will take time to get noticed, and to generate a consistent stream of traffic.

What's more, you'll need to gain a solid understanding of search engine optimization techniques if you really want to set your blog apart, and gain substantial traffic.

Producing content is half the battle, understanding how to design content to meet search demand, so that you can leverage it to make money is something very different.

- How easy to start: starting an online blog is easy. Once you have content that is ranking, and driving consistent traffic, it's easy to monetise with an affiliate link, and by leveraging affiliate relationships.
- Setup time: 1 hour, but don't expect to make money fast

4. Build an online community

An often overlooked way of making extra money online, is to build an online community.

Just like setting up an online blog, building a large audience involves creating a space for a group of likeminded people to come together, and share ideas online. This can be on your own website, via social media accounts, or on a branded community management platform.

In fact, one of the things we're most proud of at Visualize Value is the network effect that has been driven over the years running our business.

Visualize Value has introduced me to some of the most interesting people and companies on the planet. These are hyper-curious individuals, who are interested in working with ambitious people, to build new things at the edge of the internet.

It's this network effect that has allowed me to launch additional businesses like the Visualize Value Talent Collective, that makes money by connecting brilliant individuals with high-growth companies.

- How easy to start: building an online community is a difficult way to make money online, but if you crack it, extremely lucrative, and an asset you can leverage for the long-term.
- Setup time: depending on your existing network, 1-5 years.

5. Become a social media influencers

The majority of brands in 2022 are working with social media influencers to promote their products and services.

Why? Because influencers provide brands with the ability to reach engaged, relevant audiences at scale. And the great news is, you don't need to have millions of followers to make money online as a social media influencer.

These days, influencers across Instagram, Youtube, and Tiktok are earning money online by building smaller, high value audiences that are hard for big brands to engage and interact with.

While the number of followers you have remains the core metric you trade as a social media influencer, nano, and micro influencers with audiences between 10-50,000 followers can use these techniques to earn more money.

And there are plenty of ways to monetize once your audience starts to engage.

Start by charging brands for sponsored posts, or product placements on your channel. Alternatively promote affiliate links, or drive traffic to your own online store by creating your own custom physical/digital products.

If you want to pursue this way of making online online, take your time to plan how you will promote your social media channel, and how you can produce consistent content that will engage and drive value for your target audience over time.

We have some great content on this exact process, feel free to the watch videos we have created, or leverage our VV Training Bundle to accelerate your knowledge.

- How easy to start: easy to start, but difficult to achieve cut-through.
- Setup time: few hours to get started, generally 3-4 months before you start to see followers begin to scale.

6. Start a dropshipping business

Dropshipping has exploded over the past few years into one of the best ways for eCommerce stores to make money online.

Instead of holding, and shipping your own stock, drop shippers rely on third parties to fulfill their online orders. That means you can spend your time focusing solely on driving traffic to your eCommerce store, selling products, and managing customer experience.

What's more, due to the fact you do not need to hold or ship stock, dropshipping has a low barrier to entry and can be a very cost-effective way to get your business off the ground fast.

That doesn't mean it's a foolproof system.

Dropshippers tend to flock to the latest trends. This makes it a fast-paced, and competitive game, where winners build systems to acquire scalable, cost-effective traffic while leveraging solid fulfillment partnerships.

If you're willing to learn, and to fail forward, fast then dropshipping can be a very lucrative way to make money online.

- How easy to start: dropshipping is easy to start and does not require lengthy product development cycles, or deep knowledge of the eCommerce space.
- Setup time: 1-10 hours

7. Sell on Amazon

Another way digital entrepreneurs earn money online is to sell products through Amazon.

Amazon has developed over the last 20 years into one of the most valuable retailers on the planet. Not only does Amazon have an enormous audience, but Amazon has also mastered next-day fulfillment to deliver an excellent customer experience for those shopping online.

For online businesses looking for additional money-making ideas, Amazon is well worth taking a look at.

Amazon FBA (Fulfillment by Amazon) allows you to send your stock directly to Amazon for fulfillment when an order is placed. Alternatively, you can leverage FBM (Fulfillment by Merchant) to maintain control of your own product fulfillment.

It's incredibly easy to create a selling account with Amazon, and you can get setup within a couple of hours. Many of the best online businesses sell on Amazon, so that they can reduce reliance on their direct-to-consumer offering, and access the large audiences that exist on marketplaces like Amazon.

For those who create digital products, and eBooks, Amazon also offers the ability to self publish via their Kindle Direct Publishing (KDP).

- How easy to start: All you need to get started is an Amazon selling account. From there, it only take a couple of hours to start listing your products
- Setup time: Depending on the number of products you are listing, 1-10 hours

8. Start a Youtube Channel

Starting a Youtube channel is another great way to make money online.

Youtubers are making 6-figure incomes, and beyond by leveraging their audiences to earn money by running ads on their channel, promoting affiliate links, and picking up brand partnerships.

To get started, you'll need to first pick a niche that you want to launch Youtube videos in. From there, it's important to reverse engineer your niche to understand what topics people are looking to understand, and how you can help them. Like Google, Youtube is a search engine where people are looking for information, tutorials, reviews, and news.

If you can position yourself to deliver Youtube videos and content, while developing authority and trust within your niche, then you can start cashing in on this lucrative passive income stream.

Just like starting an online blog, or eCommerce store, it will take time to build your channel.

Start by working out how you generate your first 1,000 subscribers and laser in on the areas that are going to drive value for this initial group. Once you're ranking, you can diversify your content and start to reach larger audiences.

- How easy to start: it's incredibly easy to start publishing content to Youtube. The tough part is to create viral videos that scale your subscriber base exponentially.
- Setup time: 1 hour upwards

9. Launch your own podcast

The global Podcast industry is expected to return a CAGR of 27% between 2022-2027, with Podcasts becoming one of the main audio streaming mediums in the US.

Podcasts have become an excellent way to build online audiences, and communities, and to leverage those listeners to make extra money online.

In the same way that online blogs and Youtube channels help you gain attention with written, and visual content, Podcasts give you a way to connect with your audience using audio.

Audio content is easy to consume on the go, and can be listened to while you travel, workout, or drive - so it makes sense to work Podcasts into your money-making strategy.

Podcasts are also cheap to start, and easy to share. All you need is a mic and some recording software, and you're good to go.

The best Podcasters monetize their programs with sponsorship deals, affiliate partnerships, premium content, and advertising deals.

- How easy to start: like Youtube, starting a podcast is easy, you simply need content to talk about and a mic to record your audio. The tough part is creating value and growing your readership.
- Setup time: 1 hour upwards

10. Buy and sell websites

Buying and selling websites is another excellent way to trade your time for income on the internet.

As digital entrepreneurship continues to flourish, digital marketplaces make it easy to trade revenue-generating digital assets globally at pretty much any entry-level.

That means regardless of your budget, you can buy a digital business today, and start making money on the internet instantly.

Start by identifying what type of digital business you're looking to operate, and how you wish to monetize your digital assets.

It's possible to buy social media accounts with existing followings, or online blogs, eCommerce stores, of SaaS products that are attracting customers, and driving revenue, you can even sell domain names to make money – but you need to understand what you're looking for.

Entrepreneurs that are most successful in this space have taken the time to sharpen their scale-up strategies so that they can leverage their skillset, and existing networks to grow the digital assets they acquire from the get-go.

It's also preferential to have start-up capital in order to play in this space. While you can buy digital businesses for under $1k, it's easy to make the wrong investments if you're not sure what you're looking for.

There is countless opportunity to make money online, but you have to do the groundwork to understand the systems that drive success.

- How easy to start: it's easy to buy a digital asset, the tough part is knowing how to grow and scale it.
- Setup time: 10 hours upwards

11. Launch an application

The Android and iOS ecosystem was valued at over $33 billion by Q1 2022, according to Techcrunch.

Huge enterprises like Uber, Meta, Netflix, and Spotify have made fortunes launching and scaling applications that help users manage every aspect of their daily lives via their smartphone – from travelling and communicating, to dating, playing games online, and listening to music.

If you have a technical skillset, and understand how to launch and serve applications, then you can scale digital apps and make money online.

The best applications become an integral part of their customers life, increasing productivity, saving time, or offering an escape from the daily rat race.

There are tones of ways to monetise smart phone applications. This can be done via a monthly subscription model, creating access to premium features, or charging customers to download your app upfront.

Regardless of the application you plan to develop, or your monetization strategy, the hard part of building an application is designing it so that it creates value, alongside being easy to use, and intuitive.

From there, finding a way for your application to spread virally is a great way to circumvent having to invest a large amount of advertising dollars to promote your app and drive downloads.

- How easy to start: launching an application is a highly skilled, and time intensive process
- Setup time: 50 hours upwards

13. Start a SaaS business

Much like launching an application, SaaS (software as a service) businesses aim to solve specific problems for individuals and businesses, in return for a monthly subscription fee.

If mastered, starting a SaaS business is one of the most lucrative ways to make money online. This is because you can build once, sell twice, and earn income on a monthly basis for as long as your customers continue to use your service.

Think of large digital software services like Salesforce, Hubspot, and Zendesk. Each business solves a specific problem for their customer set and provides access to digital tools that drive ongoing value for their customer base every month – in return, they charge monthly fees which compound over time - driving MRR, and in turn, ARR.

Entering the SaaS start-up scene is not an easy process though. If you are looking to bootstrap your SaaS business then you need to first develop your proposition, work out how you will price your solution, and importantly how you will acquire customers.

The best SaaS businesses become masters in selling their products and building strong foundations, and infrastructure which can automate their customer service functions.

- How easy to start: similar to launching you own smartphone application, launching a SaaS business takes dedication, skill, and patience
- Setup time: 50 hours upwards

14. Earn advertising revenue

Earning advertising revenue is one of the oldest monetization strategies on the web.

We're certain that you've been targeted by digital banner advertisements which are designed to draw your attention from one website to another.

Digital advertisers leverage large publisher networks to serve ads to relevant audiences based on tones of different variables, like demographics, age, and areas of interest.

Ultimately, if you can build a digital asset (whether that be a blog, podcast, or Youtube channel) then you can trade your visitor's attention for digital ad revenue.

If this is an area that interests you, focus on building content that will drive the types of audiences that will be attractive to digital advertisers.

Learn how digital advertising is bought, and how much traffic you will need to drive your target return within the niche you are targeting - most display advertisers buy on a CPM, or cost per thousand impressions basis.

And remember, advertisers will pay more in competitive niches, where attention is harder to command – for example, finance, crypto, and software are all high competition areas, but very lucrative.

If you want to combine strategies, you can also think about acquiring digital businesses that already drive relevant audiences to their web properties.

- How easy to start: it's easy to start earning advertising revenue if you have an existing digital asset that you can leverage. If you're just starting out, think about ways that you can get attention by creating a blog, Youtube channel, or social media following, from there you can monetize with ads.
- Setup time: 1-3 hours depending your current access to traffic

15. Pick up freelance jobs

If you're looking to make money online immediately, then picking up freelance work might be the best place to start.

No matter what the level of your current skill set is, there are digital businesses across the globe recruiting for your talent.

Freelancer communities like Upwork, and Fiverr give you the ability to promote your profile and pitch for work instantly. And depending on the type of work you offer, these platforms have the potential to provide access to thousands of businesses who are recruiting right now.

If you are more advanced in your career and have built an established network of industry contacts, it's possible to pick up freelance work by packaging your skillset into a formal proposition that your network can evaluate for upcoming project work.

Digital businesses are always looking to outsource projects to freelancers. This includes tasks, and projects across digital marketing, graphic design, content writing, online tutoring, translations, search engine optimization, video editing, and project management work.

If you are looking to make passive income on the internet, and escape your 9-5 job, then this can be a great way to start working on your terms, while you develop your own digital businesses and side hustles in your spare time.

- How easy to start: it's easy to get set up on a freelance job market. Sign up for an account and start promoting your skills/expertise to prospective clients
- Setup time: 3 hours

16. Sell on Ebay and online marketplaces

In the same way that you can sell on Amazon, it's also possible to sell on other online marketplaces like Ebay, Etsy, Facebook Marketplace, and Vinted.

This is one of the fastest ways to make extra cash online, as you can list your products quickly, and leverage these large audiences that are looking for products across pretty much any product category you can think up.

That means you can either produce products, like custom t-shirts, clothing, home goods, and art to sell online. Alternatively, collect up your old possessions that still retain value, and swap them for fast cash.

New second hand clothing marketplaces like Vinted are also a great place to monetize and rehome old pieces in your wardrobe that you would have previously thrown out or recycled.

Likewise, if you have built a collection of luxury fashion items, there is a large second hand market that will make it easy to recoup some of your initial investment in each piece.

- How easy to start: it's very easy to get set up and start making extra money online selling your items on online marketplaces like eBay.
- Setup time: 30 minutes upwards

17. Pick up tasks on Amazon mechanical turk

If you want to make money online fast, then signing up to Amazon mechanical turk could be a smart option.

Amazon mechanical turk helps businesses leverage digital workforces to complete administrative online tasks at scale, allowing them to stay nimble, and reduce operational costs.

Once you sign up to start working on tasks, it can take a few days before you are approved. But once you're signed up, then you can start working on tasks like transcribing video, translating content, tagging images, and auditing receipts and spending.

The best way to maximize your time on Amazon Mechanical Turk is to sign up to relevant communities like MTurk crowd forum, these forums will be able to give you a better idea of how much money you will make per online task/project, and specifically, which projects are the best and most reputable to work on.

- How easy to start: it's easy to get started on Mechanical Turk, and if you're familiar with data entry tasks then you can start to make money fast.
- Setup time: 1 hour to setup, but the application process takes a few days

18. Take online surveys for money

Another way to make money online fast, is to sign up to take online surveys via sites like Survey Junkie, and Swagbucks.

Taking online surveys involves running through a series of questions, and providing accurate answers so that brands and digital businesses can learn what you, and others like you care about online.

This type of online work is not the most lucrative, as there is a low barrier to entry, and it requires very little input/skill to take part in. However, if you want to make easy money in less than an hour, taking online surveys is worth looking at.

- How easy to start: this is one of the fastest ways to start making extra money online. Digital businesses are keen to rank well on review websites, and so are happy to pay users in return for their honest feedback.
- Setup time: 1 hour

19. Test websites & apps

For those who are willing to invest time, testing apps and online sites is a great way to earn cash at your own pace.

Thousands of websites and apps, are looking for people to test their products before they launch them to the market. This is to enhance user experience, eliminate bugs, and make sure that their services are meeting customer needs as intended.

Sign up to popular survey sites like UserTesting, and get yourself an account. From there, you can earn in the region of $10 for 20 minutes testing online sites and apps.

Likewise, if you're willing to have video calls with testing teams, you can earn up to $120 to run through your feedback and offer suggestions on how to improve.

This really is a way to make easy money online.

- How easy to start: this is another great money making idea for those looking to get started quickly. Simply sign up to website, and app testing marketplaces to get started.
- Setup time: 1 hour

20. Sell your photography online

If you are an expert behind the lens, and you're passionate about photography, then this is a fantastic avenue that you can use to make more money online.

Whether you have a professional setup, or you are taking photographs on your iPhone, there are places online that allow you to turn your photography into extra cash.

Start by signing up to stock photo sites like Alamy, that allow you to sell stock photos online. This is a great place to cut your teeth. Alternatively, sell your photos through your own eCommerce store, or use print on demand services like Printful to sell products featuring your photography (like t-shirts, phone cases, and clothing).

If you're interested in turning your passion for photography into a fully fledged services business, there are also tonnes of other outlets that the internet can help you scale. These service based offerings include wedding photography, product photography, website photography and more.

- How easy to start: selling your photography online is deeply connected to how you are able to develop your personal brand. Photographers who are able to build a strong personal brand have a much higher success rate with this business idea.
- Setup time: At least a few weeks

21. Become an online virtual assistant

In the same way that you can pick up freelance work, there are millions of individuals and companies that are looking for support from virtual assistants.

Typical tasks include picking up administrative tasks, organising diaries, and managing travel arrangements. But you can also act as an online tutor for those looking to develop in specific areas.

If you are someone who is organised, and willing to shape your time around other people's schedules then this becoming a virtual assistant is a good way to make money online fast. Likewise, if you like to teach others, you can leverage your skills to tutor people online.

It's also a great way to supplement your full time job.

- How easy to start: it's easy to sign up to freelance marketplaces that allow you to build your profile and submit job applications. Ensure you constantly deliver high quality work, and meet deadlines to guarantee favorable reviews.
- Setup time: 1 week

22. Carry out translation work

One of the best ways to leverage your skillset for extra money, is translating content.

We took a look at the top five translation flows online, and these include English, to Spanish, Chinese, French, German, and Russian. However, if you speak a foreign language, then there really is no limit to the amount of work you can pick up as an online translator.

The work includes translating content into foreign languages so that digital businesses can extend their offering to new territories and languages. For example, in the iGaming niche, businesses are constantly looking to extend their services into South America, Africa, and the Far East.

To get started, hit up popular freelance platforms like Upwork, PeoplePerHour, and Gengo. Alternatively, put together your own freelance website, and start promoting your translations proposition.

- How easy to start: depending on how many languages you speak, and your proficiency you can pick up translation work very quickly. Prospective clients will often ask to see a sample of work upfront, so be prepared to work quickly when briefs come your way.
- Setup time: 1 week

23. Use Airbnb to earn extra money

There are a couple of awesome ways to start generating extra cash flow using Airbnb.

One potential way to generate money using Airbnb is to rent out your spare rooms. This is a great way to turn one of your main monthly liabilities (your home), into a cash flowing asset via the internet.

If you have spare capital, it's also possible to buy or rent properties, and turn them into short-let Airbnb rentals that generate you cashflow every month.

If this is something you want to explore further, then start thinking about your specific strategy on Airbnb. That includes how you price your spare room, or rental property, the competitive environment, and how you photograph your property to draw attention.

It's also vital that you understand the various taxes and fees connected to making profit via short term rentals. We also recommend you nail down a clear cancellation policy so that your guests know what to expect in the event they can't honour their booking.

- How easy to start: depending on whether you have a suitable room to rent out. If you're ready to go then it can take 72 hours for your listing to publish.
- Setup time: 1-7 days including photography, designing your listing page, and listing your property on Airbnb.

24. Narrate audiobooks

Another way that people can earn money from online platforms, is to narrate audiobooks.

This is a great avenue to explore for those who are confident, and used to bringing stories to life - like actors, and those working in theatre.

To get started, you can check out audiobook marketplaces like Bunny Studio, ACX, and Voices. Alternatively start hustling and getting your name out there by offering to contribute to live projects with free work to build your portfolio.

One of the best ways to also get your name out there is to build your own online portfolio by creating your own website. This becomes an asset that you can send when you're pitching for work, or contacting new prospects.

The best audiobook narrators are confident, used to working to deadlines, and have the ability to bring unique and different characters to life with accents, wit, and varying dialects.

- How easy to start: starting up in audiobook narrating is not an easy process. It takes time to build up your network, and portfolio. However once your name is out there, it can be a great way to make money online.
- Setup time: to get set up it will take 3 hours+, but this is a money-making idea that will take some time to gain traction. Just be persistent, and put in the work.

Consider How To Make Money Online Long-Term

Before you get started on your money-making journey, take the time to consider how your strategy complements your long-term money making objectives.

If you are looking to make a full time income on the internet, then consider what types of digital businesses suit your skillset, and how you can grow digital assets to achieve your objectives.

Focus on creating content in niches that you are passionate about so that you give yourself the best chance possible of remaining persistent, and working through the tough slog required to get your dream off the ground.

Every entrepreneur has to go through growing pains, where your not making money, and your not getting the attention your content deserves. But stay persistent.

It's also ok to start out by making money online using short term tactics, and strategies, just be aware that once you stop producing, it's likely your digital income will also run out pretty quickly.

If you want to make passive income online for the long-term, take the time to devise strategies that earn your content attention at scale while you sleep. What's more, focus on automating each sales channel that drives you revenue, so that you can eventually step back, and focus on your next phase of growth.
